1. REINO UNIDO

acancy for EVS Volunteer in United Kingdom

Contact person: Jonathan Robertson

Organisation: Xchange Scotland

Location: Glasgow, United Kingdom

Deadline: 27/01/2012

Start: 01/06/2012

End: 01/06/2013

Xchange Scotland is a national organisation but our roots and where we are based is in Glasgow. Glasgow was known as the second city of the British Empire. But following industrial decline, Glasgow became a city with some of the most entrenched social problems in the UK. It has many of the poorest constituencies in the UK, a great deal of social inequalities and problems with health, violence and sectarian divisions.

Glasgow is a city with many opportunities, it is a city redefining itself for the 21st Century. Through culture, arts, sports and a range of other routes, the city is at the beginning of seeing a new future for itself and its young people.

Xchange Scotland is based in Govan. Govan is an area on the south bank of the Clyde which has been and is currently at the heart of many of the above issues and opportunities. This is the area that the volunteers will be living and be mainly based.

We also anticipate the volunteers will be involved in visits to many areas of Glasgow and beyond. Glasgow has not benefited as a city from EVS volunteers much in the past and we feel that they would be able to have a greater impact as a result.

Xchange Scotland is a youth-led charity, so bringing in EVS volunteers to work for us is a very logical step. They will be working alongside other young people and helping to inspire them and promote mutual understanding amongst young people.

The EVS volunteers will be working alongside people who have been volunteers and followed on a developmental path of planning and delivering projects, securing funding, founding and developing an organisation and the relevant policies. One of the founders of Xchange Scotland went on EVS himself and founding Xchange Scotland was what they did on their return. This all contributes to the environment the EVS volunteers will be coming to and being inspired by.

Tasks

The Service and Learning opportunities for the volunteers will be: - working in an area with the particular social challenges of Govan and Glasgow - helping delivery of project goals to a timescale - exploring the possibilities of the networks that we work within - helping development and delivery of non-formal educational workshops - public speaking - event delivery - intercultural understanding and dialogue - space to work on own ideas and improvements to our activities - self-reflection systems from their Xchange Scotland mentor

The role and activities of the volunteers within the organisation: 1. Delivery of intercultural education workshops: Helping to deliver our existing programme of workshops on sectarianism and religious intolerance – helping promote and deliver workshops on topics such as active global citizenship and intercultural education. This gives a strong intercultural dimension to the EVS volunteer's project. 2. Outreach: Attending events which promote international volunteering and intercultural exchange, assisting info sessions to groups of people in relation to international and intercultural opportunities. By involving EVS volunteers in our outreach work we are maximising their benefit and helping to spread the word about EVS and the European programmes. This gives a strong European dimension to the EVS volunteer's project. Again, this contributes to the multiplying effect and visibility of the EVS volunteer's project. 3. Assisting international volunteer projects. The volunteers will also be involved in assisting projects we host alongside local organisations in Glasgow and beyond. This will involve bringing added value and support to these projects – bringing the intercultural education to these projects and helping achieve more. Volunteers will: - be responsible for small parts of larger projects - be part of a larger team – to be supervised directly by the Project Manager and have regular meetings with their mentor (an Xchange Scotland Board Member)

Criteria

Young people from diverse backgrounds who are interested in notions of local and international citizenship. Ideally previously active in international exchanges or local volunteering, have a passion for intercultural work and the power of volunteers. Creative, enthusiastic, motivated. Good communication skills are essential - particularly good levels of English.

Procedure

Volunteers should send their CV and Motivation Letter as soon as possible to info@xchangescotland.org We will ensure an open and transparent selection processes by convening a selection committee comprised of board members, paid staff and volunteers. We will select volunteers based on level of enthusiasm and motivation rather than formal qualifications or experience. We will endeavour to ensure a balance between sex, nationality and backgrounds of volunteers. We will make sure that there are a range of tasks that are suited to a variety of individuals and skills sets.

4. DINAMARCA

Dear friends,

Being an international organisation, we find it important and stimulating to host a volunteer in the office. We find it a good reminder for our international work and a big help, especially with a view to our youth work and youth projects.

The stay must be interesting and fruitful for both parties to give the most positive outcome. We are taking as a priority the learning process of the volunteer. ISCA staff will offer support to the volunteers to develop their own ideas and projects.

We regard the EVS project as a two-way experience

To our organisation, the volunteer contribution means that the youth projects will be further developed and new projects may arise - with the help of a young volunteer dealing with young people in our member organisations. This means that our members will benefit from the work of the volunteer as well, and we get a closer link to the young people and the various youth issues in our member organisations. Moreover, it is a help in the daily running of the office to host a volunteer as well as an inspiration to the entire work environment. ISCA usually hosts two or three volunteers in the office in Copenhagen, at the same time.

There are three working areas we are interested in hosting a volunteer for:

- ISCA Youth network

You will take charge of the main communication between ISCA's Youth and you will develop and run activities inside the network, helping to consolidate its work. We will count on your ideas to help us flourish the network, with the aim of increasing the participation of youth in international projects and extending the role of sport and physical activity as a tool for social development.

- Non-Formal Education/Training projects

ISCA uses Non-Formal Education throughout its program, whereof this area involves continuous project management and project development of ISCA's work in the field of Sport, Culture and Youth. You will coordinate, participate and/or facilitate in specific seminars, trainings and events, there will be space to develop your own project idea within the sphere of grassroots sport. To get the picture of one youth event, visit <http://tinyurl.com/d5s2nds>.

- ISCA projects and ISCA thematic networks

ISCA engages member organisations and others in projects, conferences and networks within the present priority topics. You will assist in organising events (like MOVE2012 Congress and ISCA General Assembly, next year happening in São Paulo, Brazil) and you will be involved in updating the website, preparing the newsletter, communication with ISCA members, assisting in fundraising activities, etc.

We are interested to host volunteers who are self-motivated, energetic youth, who are enthusiastic and want to put their imprint on development of young people.

In case you are interested in experience work in an international environment and Danish way of life please send your CV and letter of interest, explaining:

1) why you are interested in this project

2) why we should choose you and what you think your strongest competence could be, while being active in ISCA.

* The application should be sent latest Sunday 15th January 2012 to Sorin Buruiana at info@isca-web.org.

* Add at the subject of your e-mail "EVS 2012-2013". Due to the high volume of received emails we will only consider applications with the mentioned subject.

* We are expecting you to have the contact with an accredited EVS sending organisation in your country.
